Husband of Former Miss Pauline Whitney, Badly Hurt in Acsident While Gunning, Keeps Companion's Name Secret.

OTHER EYE MAY BE SAVED.

Wounded Man Is Hurried to London, Where a Surgeon Quickly Removes the Injured Eyeball to Prcvent Sympathetic Developments.

LONDON. Oct. 27 .- Almeric Hugh Paget, who married Miss Pauline Whitney, of New York, has lost the sight of one eye as the result of being accident ally shot by a friend while gunning, but it is believed now that the other eye vill not be affected.

Details of the accident are still lack ing, but it is said here that Mr. Paget is extremely anxious to prevent the name of the friend who caused the acident from becoming public. It seems that the two men were shooting over the friend's preserves when the other man's gun was accidently discharged and a portion of the contents of one barrel lodged in Mr. Paget's face. One shot penetrated his eye. He was hurried at once to this city and the eyeball was removed by a surgeon.

Almeric Hugh Paget spent a number of years in the Western States and was a frequent visitor to New York. It was while here that he met Miss Pauline Whitney and their marriage was cele brated here. At the wedding, which took place in St. Thomas's Church, many notable guests were present. Among them were Grover Cleveland. then President of the United States; the Secretaries of War and the Navy, Sir Julian Pauncefote, J. P. Morgan and Levi P. Morton, then Governor of New York. Lady Colebrook, a relative of the family, came from London, as did also Gen. Arthur H. Paget, of the Scots Guards, who is a brother. Gen. Paget's ter of the late Paran Stevens.

the Nile, and it was while there that the marriage was arranged.
Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Paget have lived much abroad, but have paid frequent visits here and to Newport. While in New York their home is at No. 11 East Sixty-first street. They have two daughters. One son died in infancy. Mr. Paget was at one time in business in Minneapoils, and is now a director in the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York. His friends say that he has a special aptitude for business.

is distant only two and a half miles and is just in view. A valley a quarter of a mile wide, through which flows the west branch of the Nimishillen Creek, separates the spot from the town. The separates the spot from the town. The site is almost in the centre of an elevenacre tract, on the highest point. The ground naturally slopes in all directions. The accompanying illustration is from a photograph of the trustees taken on the chosen site. On the left of the picture, as one looks at it, is Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York, who was Mr. McKinley's Secretary of the Interior. Next to Mr. Bliss is Judge William A. Lynch, and next to him is Col. Webb C. Hayes, son of the late President Hayes. Senator Hanna is seated. To the left of Mr. Hanna is John G. Milburn, of Buffalo, in whose-house McKinley breathed his last, then Senator Fairbanks, then Mr. Hartzell, Secretary to the trustees, who holds the plans for the memorials. On the right of the picture is Mr. Cortelyou, who was McKinley's private secretary, and who holds the same confidential relation to President Roosevelt.

The trustees visited the modest tomb where McKinley's body now lies and placed a wreath on his casket.

Reports submitted to the trustees show that about $100,000 is lacking of the $55,000 necessary to carry out the plans. Earnest and prompt efforts will be made to raise $150,000 of which $50,000 will be used to endow the association. site is almost in the centre of an eleven-
